SUMMARY

For Planet Fitness's Classic Gym Membership, the website does not explicitly state whether it is open to the general public, as needed for full confirmation of this criterion. Additionally, membership fees are not directly published on the main page, requiring a further check of individual club links to access this information. The exact membership fee comparison to the form is also inconclusive, as the site lacks a universally applicable price and depends on a specific location, which was not provided on the form. These points necessitate further human review, and internal checks remain for final confirmation.

Needs Review

Is the organization open to the public and not a private/invitation-only club? — The page does not contain clear, explicit language stating that Planet Fitness is open to the general public or that it is not a private or invitation-only club. While it offers membership sign-ups and shows multiple club locations, it does not explicitly confirm openness to the general public, which is necessary to confidently affirm this criterion.

Needs Review

Does the organization publish membership fees? — The captured page text does not include specific information about membership fees for Planet Fitness. While it has links to 'Review Plans' for each club, the page itself does not publish membership fees directly. A visit to these links might be necessary to confirm fee publication, hence it requires further review.

Needs Review

Does the published membership fee match the amount stated on the form? — Could not locate a single published price for 'Classic Gym Membership' on the page to compare against the form's stated fee. This provider's price depends on a specific club location, which the application form doesn't specify — so an exact match can't be confirmed automatically. A reviewer should confirm the correct price for a specific club location.
